

Great Britain Security Machins

I have created these pages in response to requests from some users who wish to collect security Machins with date and source codes. There are quite a few with, obviously, more to come with new issues. There is also the possibility that there may be other source and date code combinations for existing issues, so please be aware that these pages are subject to change as new data becomes available.

Only security Machins containing a source code and/or a date code will appear on these pages. This will reduce the amount of duplication with existing Machin pages.

Some security Machins have the words 'Royal Mail' printed in iridescent ink across the stamp, and many of these also have date and/or source codes within this printing. A common example would be M12L instead of the word MAIL, meaning that the stamp was printed in 2012.

Source codes identify the source of the stamp, for instance FOYAL denotes a stamp from a four-stamp booklet. If there are no changes to 'ROYAL MAIL' on any of the printing, this is a stamp with neither or date codes.. The position of the codes on the stamp vary.

Below is an example of how the stamps and data will appear on these pages.

'ROYALMAIL' printed backing paper:

From early 2016 self-adhesive Security Machins appeared with a repeated undulating 'ROYALMAIL' background in two sizes of grey text printed on the front of the backing paper. Initially the two sizes of grey text were printed upright: Type PB-Up (Printed Backing Upright). In early 2017 the background was changed so that alternate pairs of lines of the repeated 'ROYALMAIL' text were inverted in relation to each other. The pairs of lines can appear with the Large lettering above the small (Type PB-Ls), or with the small above the Large (Type PB-sL). In October 2018 a fourth type appeared on some PM64 booklets. In this type the 'ROYALMAIL' background, in two sizes of grey text, is all inverted (Type PB-Inv). Where they exist these differences are noted in the following pages.
